TOTAL POPULATION, INCREASE, AND DISTRIBUTION.

Population of the state.—Oregon was organized as a territory in 1848 and admitted to the Union as the thirty-third state in February, 1859. According to the Fourteenth Census, taken as of January 1, 1920, its population is 783,389, which represents an increase of 110,624, or 16.4 per cent, over the population in 1910. During the same period the population of the United States increased by 14.9 per cent. The following summary shows the population of Oregon from 1850 to 1920, inclusive, together with the number and per cent of increase for each decade, in comparison with the per cent of increase for the United States as a whole:

Counties.—Oregon has 36 counties, of which 9 show decreases as compared with 1910. (See Table 1.) Two new counties—Deschutes and Jefferson—have been organized from parts of Crook County between 1910 and 1920. It has been necessary, therefore, in preparing the maps on page 3, showing rates of increase in total and rural population since 1910, to combine these 3 counties.

Density of population.—The total land area of the state is 95,607 square miles. The average number of inhabitants to the square mile in 1920 is 8.2 (see Table 1), as against 7 in 1910 and 4.3 in 1900.

Minor civil divisions.—The political units into which the counties are divided are collectively termed "minor civil divisions." The primary divisions of the counties of Oregon are the election precincts, which number 1,683 (380 of these are in the city of Portland alone). There are also 198 secondary divisions, comprising 114 cities and 84 towns. In a number of cases a city or town comprised an entire precinct or two or more precincts or parts of two or more precincts. There are also 2 Indian reservations within the state. (See Table 2.)

Cities.—Oregon has 114 cities, of which Portland, with a population of 258,288, is the largest. (See Tables 3 and 4.)

The following summary shows, for each city having 5,000 or more inhabitants in 1920, the population at each census for which figures are available, together with the number and per cent of increase during the preceding decade:

Urban and rural population.—The Census Bureau defines urban population as that residing in cities and other incorporated places having 2,500 inhabitants or more, and rural population as that residing outside such incorporated places.

The following summary presents, for the last three censuses, figures showing the urban and rural population of the state distributed among places grouped according to specified limits of population. The classification for each census is based upon the population of the various places as shown by the returns of that census. Consequently the territory comprised within any one class of cities or that designated as urban or as rural does not remain fixed, because any given place may, through the growth or the decline of its population, pass from one class to another at successive censuses. The proportion of the population of Oregon living in places of 2,500 or more increased from 32.2 per cent in 1900 to 45.6 per cent in 1910 and to 49.9 per cent in 1920.

TABLE 1.—AREA AND POPULATION OF COUNTIES: 1850 TO 1920.

[In computing the increase from 1890 to 1900 for certain counties, the population of Indian reservations in 1900 has been deducted from the total population of the county in order to make it comparable with the total for 1890, which does not include the population of Indian reservations. The population thus deducted in the several counties was as follows: Crook, 555; Klamath, 1,136; Polk, 152; Umatilla, 1,397; Wasco, 282; Yamhill, 250.]
